

Travelers

★ ★ ★

The United States Supports Extension of Validity for Venezuelan Passports

MEDIA NOTE

OFFICE OF THE SPOKESPERSON

JUNE 7, 2019

Share

Today, the National Assembly published a decree signed by Interim President Juan Guaido on May 21, to extend the validity of Venezuelan passports for an additional five years past their printed date of expiration. The United States recognizes this extension of passport validity for visa issuance and other consular purposes. Customs and Border Patrol will likewise recognize the passports covered by this decree.

Venezuelan passport holders who have been issued a passport extension will have the validity period extended by five years from the expiration date in their passport and valid for admission to the United States, as long as the traveler is otherwise admissible. Venezuelans in the United States holding passports extended by the decree may use those passports, which will still be considered valid in accordance with the decree, for any appropriate consular purpose. Nothing in this action alters the requirements for obtaining a U.S. visa or for admission to the United States.

TAGS

Bureau of Western Hemisphere AffairsOffice of the SpokespersonPassportsTravel DocumentsVenezuelaVisas

★ ★ ★

Related Articles

— JULY 3, 2019

The United States Curtails Cuban Support for Illegitimate Former Maduro Regime

READ MORE →

— JULY 2, 2019

Secretary Pompeo's Call With Venezuelan Interim President Juan Guaido

READ MORE →

— JULY 1, 2019

AILA Doc. No. 19070330. (Posted 7/3/19)

Participation in the 49th Organization of American States General Assembly

READ MORE →

White House

USA.gov

Office of the Inspector General

Archives

Contact Us

Privacy Policy

Accessibility Statement

Copyright Information

FOIA

No FEAR Act

Website Feedback